FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Illumia Announces Executive Appointment

Chicago, IL – Illumia announced today Admira Ibisevic as Managing Partner effective April 8th, 2019. She joins current Managing Partner, Sanel Kostic, and will operate in a dual leadership structure.

Managing Partner, Sanel Kostic, highlights this development as a key differentiator in executing the next phase of Illumia’s growth strategy: “We are tremendously excited to have someone of Admira’s caliber join our team. This strategic move will allow Illumia to not only delight our existing client base but also accelerate new product introduction, form strategic alliances, and drive expansion plans on a global scale, while in parallel maintaining our commitment to deliver results through both organic and acquisition-based growth.”

Prior to joining Illumia, Admira demonstrated a track record of strong performance, ascending rapidly to Vice President, Strategic Account Operations with Orion Energy Systems. Previous assignments span across organizational development, sales operations, business unit launch, and account management while consistently increasing complexity and magnitude of responsibility. In reflecting on her new challenge Admira says: “As we navigate a time of unprecedented change that dramatically impacts the world of work, Illumia has positioned itself as a contender in this space. This organization has made a stand on the importance of people as the underlying driver of organizational performance – a belief that very much aligns with my leadership compass. This is a fantastic time for this team and I look forward to getting started.”
