FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Illumia Launches Emerging Talent Program

Chicago, IL – Illumia Consulting Group today announced an enhancement to current service lines by launching an accelerated development program focused on emerging talent.

Illumia’s Managing Partner, Sanel Kostic, said: “We have reached a talent inflection point characterized by changing demographic trends. Our clients are experiencing a widening leadership vacuum that is driven by pending retirements across both levels and functions. This is leading to an erosion of fundamental leadership capabilities that are required to not only sustain progress but also effectively lead the organization into the future. We intend to directly answer this need.”

Illumia’s development program will be deployed in cohorts and is designed to equip the next generation of leaders with technical, human, and vision to execution capabilities required to deliver upon the organization’s agenda. Work is delivered in both one on one and group settings while balancing pragmatic leadership methods, experiential learning, and simulation based environments that pressure test capabilities and drive leadership development at an accelerated pace.

Illumia is committed to bridging the leadership gap and looks forward to delivering this meaningful offering to both existing and future clients.
