Illumia Introduces Progress Performance Management

Chicago, IL — Illumia Consulting Group today announced Progress Performance Management (PPM), a highly effective solution designed to maximize organizational performance.

Illumia’s Managing Partner, Admira Ibisevic said: “Progress Performance Management is a mechanism that leverages both structure and behaviors to drive organizational performance. It helps our clients cut through the noise, crystallize directives, and mobilize the organization with rigor and discipline while in parallel enabling engagement, ownership thinking, and an improved sense of empowerment across the organization. Clients that implemented PPM have achieved north of 70% improvement in completion of directives compared to previous years. This is a meaningful point of pride for Illumia’s advisory business.”

Progress Performance Management is an innovative approach that fully connects an organization’s strategy all the way through to execution across levels and functions. It utilizes prescriptive methods to illuminate priorities, proactively align teams, and successfully deliver results. PPM incorporates organizational rhythms that promote accountability, transparency, and ownership thinking while enabling engagement, sense of belonging, and empowerment across the organization.
